Young Musicians Program

June 28 – August 3, 2025 | New Hampshire

Comprehensive Training

The Walden School Young Musicians Program convenes each summer on the beautiful mountaintop campus of the Dublin School in New Hampshire. Its comprehensive music curriculum provides students the tools and guidance they need to express themselves through music. With 55 students, Walden is intentionally small, and the 4:1 student-to-faculty ratio ensures that classes and coaching are geared towards a range of students, beginners through advanced. In addition to musicianship and composition, the unique curriculum features an annual rotation of engaging specialty courses, such as electronic music, film scoring, jazz, music history and literature, instrumentation and orchestration, songwriting, and more. Students enjoy frequent one-on-one lessons, working with faculty to develop original compositions.

“Though there are many music camps, there isn’t another like The Walden School with its focus on nurturing musicianship through the act of composing and creating.”
- Joan Tower, Composer

Creativity and Community

Training in all aspects of musicianship culminates in diverse modes of creative expression, through improvisation and composition. All students, faculty, and staff sing in The Walden School Chorus, which meets daily. To balance this rigorous musical training, students enjoy weekly mountain hikes, swim trips, dances, open mic nights, and recreational games and sports, which are all an integral part of the Walden experience. A focus towards community permeates the experience, providing just the right mix of challenge, support, and fun.

An Inspiring Setting

Founded in 1972, Walden’s immersive music program, which blends elements of camp and school, convenes each summer in Dublin, New Hampshire. Surrounded by natural beauty and away from day-to-day distractions, students ages 9-18 gather from all over the world to collaborate with peers and dedicated teachers. Walden’s faculty is composed of well-rounded and distinguished musicians who live alongside students, providing guidance and mentorship both in and out of the classroom. A great number of Walden alumni are engaged in careers as musicians, and all alumni take with them a keen understanding of the creative process and a deep appreciation for artistic expression in whatever field they pursue.

“At Walden, I discovered a place where I can express and expand my musical creativity in many ways... Being part of such an intense and rich musical community has matured my understanding of what music means to me, and what music means to the world outside of myself as well.”

- Oscar, Walden Alum

Award-Winning Concert Series

Walden’s concert series brings artists-in-residence of the highest caliber to campus to present concerts and events for the community. Through the performance of diverse and electrifying music, guest artists play an invaluable role in helping to foster student creativity. Young musicians bring new music to life through their involvement in concerts, classes, and open rehearsals. The program features weekly Composers Forums, during which guest artists, students, faculty and staff perform and then discuss student compositions. The summer culminates with the season-ending Choral Concert.
